

Gender Equality and Violence Prevention

Prevention, trauma-informed psychological support and stronger pathways to specialist services.

Parentis is open to partnerships that strengthen prevention, early identification, psychological support and referral concerning domestic, sexual and gender-based violence. Our contribution is grounded in mental health, family and community work, professional training and cooperation with public institutions.

THREE CONNECTED PRIORITIES

PARENTIS EXPERIENCE

Psychological counselling

Accessible counselling for women, children and families, including people affected by violence and trauma.

Professional training

Cooperation with Romania's National Agency for Equal Opportunities between Women and Men in training related to sexual violence.

Community prevention

Psychoeducation, awareness, work with parents and children, and cooperation with schools and public services.

Institutional relationships

Established links with health, education, social services, child protection and local public authorities.

A partnership for safer pathways

Parentis contributes within its professional scope: prevention, psychological support, training, community engagement and referral cooperation.

WE WANT TO WORK WITH

Specialist GBV organisations and crisis centres; survivor-led and women's-rights organisations; organisations working with men and boys; research institutes; professional-training providers; public institutions; and partners experienced in safeguarding, referral systems and policy advocacy.

WHAT WE CAN CONTRIBUTE

- Psychological counselling and psychoeducation within Parentis' professional scope;
- Trusted community relationships and experience engaging families through accessible programmes;
- Training, facilitation, outreach and dissemination capacity;
- Pilot implementation and feedback from participants and frontline professionals;
- Coordination with schools, health providers, social services and public institutions.

DIRECTIONS TO EXPLORE

- Trauma-informed psychological support and stabilisation resources;
- Training for psychologists, educators, healthcare and community professionals;
- Safe identification, first response and referral protocols;
- Adaptation of evidence-based information and self-help resources;
- Prevention programmes with children, adolescents and parents;
- Father-inclusive family services and gender-transformative parenting;
- Documentation of barriers encountered when seeking support and evidence-based advocacy.

POSSIBLE RESULTS

- Better-informed and more confident frontline professionals
- Stronger prevention work with children, parents, men and boys
- Safer connections between community support and specialist services
- Evidence supporting improved institutional practice and advocacy
- Accessible trauma-informed resources for survivors and families
